EASTERN NEWS.

[illegible] TO THE OREGONIAN.

[illegible] the Democratic Candidates.

[illegible] July 12.—General Dix, predecessor of [illegible] the gubernatorial chair of this State, in a [illegible] that he cannot attend the Republican meeting in this city to-night, says [illegible] for Tilden and Hendricks is a mere [illegible] office, and is an insult to the intelligence of the people. The four [illegible] before us will afford time to canvass the [illegible] intelligently and thoroughly, [illegible] of more importance, will enable us to [illegible] by analysis of his public acts that the [illegible] for President, instead of being [illegible] his followers assert, as himself in [illegible] of reform, as is the party which has [illegible] moreover, it will enable us by indisputable facts that the government offices in which he has been [illegible] not now exist, if his example [illegible] been followed by his coun[illegible]

[illegible] Loyal Orangemen.

[illegible] July 12.—The parade of the Loyal [illegible] took place to-day, and was a [illegible] in every respect. The men, of [illegible] two thousand in line, clad [illegible], presented a fine appearance [illegible] over the route, and were [illegible] of appreciation.

[illegible] of the Massacre.

[illegible] July 12.—Agency Indians along the [illegible] who have an account of Custer's [illegible] the Indians who took part in [illegible]. Indians with his pistol and [illegible] with his sabre, when he fell shot [illegible] by Rain-in-the-face, a chief [illegible] had forcibly arrested some time ago. The Indians lost seventy killed, [illegible] many wounded chiefs. The fight was [illegible]. The Indians say they did not fear [illegible] as much as they did the sabres. They [illegible] out of ammunition and will not fight [illegible] they get a supply from the agencies.

[illegible] Thunder Storms.

[illegible], July 11.—Terrific thunder storms are [illegible] throughout the country in all directions; [illegible] buildings struck and several lives lost. The [illegible] has been unequaled for years.

[illegible] of the Excessive Heat.

[illegible] July 11.—The extraordinary heat has [illegible] depressing effect on all products. [illegible] to deteriorate through its influence [illegible] release has led to a [illegible] in prices, in many instances. This [illegible] noticeable as regards flour, [illegible] and everything which, in many [illegible] have been literally slaughtered. Ex[illegible] unfavorable private cable advices, [illegible] buyers at the decline, and the [illegible] may be said to be in a condition [illegible] strictly prime flour and wheat are [illegible], but even these are low [illegible]. General trade has scarcely [illegible], as from the unfavorable weather [illegible] men are out of the city.

[illegible] July 11.—Attendance at the Exposition below average, owing very pro[illegible] heat; paying admissions 21,000. [illegible] of butter and cheese in the [illegible] are now open; they in[illegible] from 95 factories, one third of [illegible]. [illegible] of the American book trade will [illegible] Hall this afternoon. [illegible] in the British, Chilean and [illegible] the main building are reported [illegible] of yesterday.

[illegible] Accident.

[illegible] July 11.—As a construction [illegible] extension railroad [illegible] grade of 300 feet to the [illegible] engine slipped both [illegible] running backward. [illegible] stricken and all but [illegible] injuries to six, [illegible] and should[illegible] to the foot of the [illegible].

[illegible] Raid.

[illegible] July 12.—The Inter-Ocean's Sioux City [illegible] the Indians who are encamped on [illegible] commenced operations last night [illegible] on a neighboring Indian camp, [illegible] of horses and committed other [illegible]

A New Bonanza.

[illegible] of Work.

[illegible] July 12.—A Herald special from Wash[illegible] Department has sent out an [illegible] work at various private [illegible] Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Chester, Providence and elsewhere on ironclads, [illegible] of any appropriation for this [illegible] in the newly passed navy bill.

[illegible] the St. Louis Nomination.

[illegible] July 12.—The committee appointed [illegible] convention to notify Gov. Tilden [illegible] for the Presidency by the Democ[illegible] waited on the Governor last night at [illegible]. Delegates from nearly every State [illegible] addressed the Governor and [illegible] work of the St. Louis convention. It [illegible] character, patriotic in sentiment and [illegible] civil authority was exposed to [illegible] from the military; when hard [illegible] and virtually banished from [illegible] legislation which peculation [illegible] sapping the foundation of the [illegible]. The convention determined to save [illegible] and chose for its standard bearers tried [illegible] and then read the address of the [illegible] conveying official information of his [illegible] Governor Tilden stating that he was [illegible] his name is prominently identi[illegible] of taxation, and main[illegible] the rights of the laboring masses and [illegible] of unvarnished purity in the eyes [illegible]

[illegible] of Indiana, also delivered a [illegible] to the Governor on behalf of the [illegible] party of Indiana, pledging him the [illegible] support.

Tilden replied as follows:

[illegible] and Gentlemen of the Committee: [illegible] my earliest convenience [illegible] and [illegible] to you my formal acceptance of the nomination [illegible] you now tender to me in behalf of [illegible] National Convention, and I do not [illegible] this occasion to anticipate any topic [illegible] might be appropriate to that communication. [illegible] be however, permitted to me to say [illegible] was but a mere personal pref[illegible] citizens and statesmen of this [illegible] who might very well have been chosen for [illegible] honor for so august a duty. It was [illegible] action of that illustrious body in [illegible] you speak in favor of administrative [illegible] which events have associated me in [illegible] for administrative reform [illegible] of the Government, and especially [illegible] of the Federal Government, [illegible] masses everywhere by in[illegible] to a series of surprises in [illegible] places, and perhaps in the [illegible]. It would be unnatural, [illegible] this popular movement so [illegible] and so powerful should stop with three and a half millions or more of Democrats that it should not extend the contagion to that large mass of independent voters who stand between the parties in our country and to that portion of the party under whose charge the administration to be corrected has grown up and perhaps in what we have yet missed there may be an augury in respect to what we may witness in the election about to take place throughout our country, at least let us hope so and believe so.

I am not without experience of the difficulty and labor of effecting an administrative reform when it requires a revolution in policies and measures long established in the government. If I were to judge by the year and a half I have been in State government, I should say that the routine duties of trust I have had imposed on me are a small burden compared with that created by the attempt to change the policy of the government of which I have been the executive head. Especially is this so when reform has to be worked out with the co-operation, more or less, of public officers who have either been tainted with the evils to be redressed, or have been incapacitated by the habit of toleration of wrongs to be corrected to which they have been consenting witnesses.

I, therefore, if your choice be ratified by the people at the election, shall enter upon the great duties which would fall upon me, not as a holiday recreation, but very much in that spirit of consecration in which the soldier enters battle. [Applause.] But I believe as I do—believe that we now see the dawn of better days for our glorious country, and that difficult as is the great work to which the Democratic party, with many allies and former members of parties, has addressed itself to the Republic, and is yet to be renovated in the future and to be transmitted to the future generations as Jefferson contributed to form it in his day, and in which it has been ever since, until the recent period, a blessing to the whole people. [Applause.]

Gents, I thank you for the kind terms in which you have made your communication, and I extend to you, collectively and individually, a most cordial greeting.

Broke Jail.

TOPEKA, Ks., July 12.—Samuel Lappin, late State treasurer, who had been confined in jail here for the last six months awaiting trial on a charge of misappropriating district school bonds, escaped by sawing the bars of his cell door.

Hayes' Letter of Acceptance.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Hayes' flat-footed declaration that purity, experience, efficiency and economy must be made the basis for civil appointments, is rapidly wheeling independent votes into the Republican ranks.

The Charge against Maj. Reno Questioned.

The newspaper charge against Major Reno, of disobedience of orders in Custer's fatal campaign, is received with a great deal of discredit. His friends claim that an investigation will relieve him completely. The later calm review of Custer's conduct assumes that he went into the fight in advance of the time, for some reason not stated. It is supposed he moved so much more rapidly than agreed, because, when he struck the Indian trail, he believed, from reasonable evidence and information known to have reached him several times, that the Indians were in flight. Terry and Custer both fully supposed the other branches of the force sufficient to drive away any Indians likely to be found, but did not know that nearly 1,200 Arapahoes and Cheyennes had reinforced Sitting Bull. Not knowing this, he rushed to the attack, when his men were exhausted by long and rapid marches, supposing that if he waited they would go beyond reach. Clearly, neither Custer nor Terry can safely be adjudged rash or inefficient.

Orangemen Celebrating.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Orangemen hereabouts went on an excursion to the Groves. Three hundred of the order are parading in Lawrence, Mass., where serious disturbances took place last year.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—An informal caucus of Democratic Congressmen yesterday was held to discuss the dead lock on appropriation bills. A resolution was taken to demand of Randall a policy calculated to bring about an agreement between the two houses, otherwise the protesting Democrats would cast their votes against Randall and unite with the majority in securing an early pa[illegible]e of the appropriation bills.

Defaulting Treasurer.

James S. Wilson, Treasurer of the District who left a few days ago, is defaulter to the amount of $5,000, secured by responsible bondsmen.

No News from Gen. Crook.

Gen. Sheridan, who telegraphed Gen. Sherman yesterday he expected to hear from Crook last night, telegraphs to day, no news. Officers of the Seventh cavalry have been ordered to join their regiment immediately.

Nominations.

The President to day nominated James Delano, of Illinois, Second Comptroller of the Treasurer, and Thos. W. Bennett of Idaho, Governor of that Territory; John Kelly, Collector of Customs for Willamette District, Oregon; Thomas B. Shannon, Collector of Customs, San Francisco; Wm. H. Howard, of Texas, Surveyor General for Washington Territory.

$200,000 for Construction of Military Posts.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The House passed the bill appropriating $200,000 for the construction of two military posts or depots in the Sioux country, in accordance with the recommendation of Generals Sheridan, Terry and Custer.

Tyner Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Jas. N. Tyner, of Indiana, Post-master General.

A Coach Demolished by a Locomotive—Fatal Results.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—At Lynn depot to day a driver of a coach in which were six passengers, attempted to cross the track in front of the incoming train. The coach was struck fairly by the engine and completely demolished, the passengers thrown out and all more or less injured. Mrs. Joseph R. Burley was fatally injured and Miss Agnes Hargent taken up insensible, but will recover.

Congratulations from Victor Emanuel.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The President has received the following letter of congratulation from His Majesty the King of Italy, on the occasion of the Centennial celebration:

Victor Emanuel, by the grace of God and will of the nation, King of Italy, to the President of the United States of America, greeting: My very Dear and Good Friend—On the day upon which the great American republic celebrates the Centennial anniversary of its existence, it is our desire to express our congratulations and others of our people, to you personally and to the nation over which you preside, and which, with admirable ability, you have succeeded in directing to its noble destiny. Neither the distance which separates us, nor any difference of race, will ever weaken in us and our people that firm friendship which unites us with the brave American nation, with which for one hundred years, Italy has had relations productive of mutual esteem. We are inclined to convey to you these sentiments so much the readier because for the purpose of most worthily celebrating the memorial day by the imposter exhibition at Philadelphia you were pleased to invite all the nations of the earth. Accept assurances of our highest esteem and friendship, together with prayers, which we offer to God that he may have you, my dear friend, in His holy keeping. Given at Rome on this 11th day of June, 1876. Your good friend, VICTOR EMANUEL.

Resignation of Commissioner Pratt.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Mr. Pratt has tendered his resignation as commissioner of internal revenue and will retire from that office on the 1st of August. It has been known for some time that the President has in repeated instances ordered the removals of internal revenue officers irrespective of the recommendation and sanction of the commissioner of internal revenue, who is held individually responsible for the proper conduct of his office. Several days ago the commissioner expressed the hope that on the incoming of Secretary Morrill there would be a satisfactory arrangement so that business could move harmoniously, in the absence of which, self propriety would compel him to resign. The President, however, having expressed a desire to make a change, Commissioner Pratt resigned.

Reported Agreement on the Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The committee of conference on the so-called silver bill held a long meeting this afternoon, and privately agreed on a report. The members of the committee are Sherman, Boutwell and Bogy, on the part of the Senate, and Randall, Sanders and Payne as Representatives of the House. The report will recommend the passage of a measure substantially the same as Randall's bill, providing for the purchase of silver bullion to the amount of $[illegible] with any money in the Treasury and for its coinage and issue in the shape of subsidiary silver coin, provided that not more than a million dollars worth shall be purchased at any one time and provided also by a new clause that the whole amount of silver issued in this way and in exchange for fractional currency retired shall not exceed $[illegible]. The Senate amendment striking out the word "now" from the clause authorizing the issue of silver coin now in the Treasury is agreed to by the committee. The House amendment adopted on motion of Landers and providing for the revival of the old silver dollar with a limited legal tender power is stricken out by the conference committee and so also is the Senate amendment repealing the legal tender power of trade dollars. Landers says he intends to oppose the adoption of the report by the House and thinks the House will stand by its former action on his amendment.

Inquiring for Victims.

Gen. Sherman this morning had many visits from friends and relatives of Gen. Crook's troops who anxiously inquired after their safety. Gen. Sherman assured them he felt no apprehension whatever with regard to the safety of Crook, that his reinforcements, which must have made him a column 2,000 strong, must have already arrived and that Terry's reinforcements will make him 2,500 strong. He thinks all the fighting Sioux do not number over 2,500, and that their loss must have been heavy, and that they are now retiring. Our troops now on the ground, he says are more than a match for the Sioux.

Hard Money Men Alarmed.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The hard money Democrats are alarmed for the Eastern effect on the campaign of the inflation movement to secure a repeal of the resumption act. Holman's bill is very disastrous. It is thought they will try to prevent any vote on it, and failing in that its defeat. Among those who have obeyed the St. Louis demand for repeal are Lane, of Oregon and Wigginton of California. Heretofore both were for the resumption.

Congressmen Prostrated by Heat.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Senator Sargent is still confined to the house by the effects of prostration caused by the heated term, but probably will be out in a day or two. Wigginton and Lane are also detained from the capitol to day by prostration of heat. The prospects now are that the impeachment will be finished in time for the adjournment of Congress next week.

Congressmen Sick.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—An unusually large number of members of Congress are sick, several seriously, from the effect of heat.

There is still much speculation over Gen. Jewell's forced resignation and the current of opinion, even among the strongest party leaders is that the President has made a mistake which will seriously injure the party in the forthcoming campaign, and especially in the Eastern States. Mr. Jewell, himself, to day does not know why his resignation was called for, as no explanation was offered and none requested. One of the President's personal friends said to day that Jewell was forced out because the President had arrived at the conclusion that he was hostile to him personally and doing all he could secretly to break him down. This is utterly repudiated by Gen. Jewell, who says he has always entertained the kindest sentiments toward the President and worked hard and faithfully toward making his administration a success by purifying the service and placing men in office who would do their duty faithfully.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—In the Senate, immediately after reading of the Journal, there was a short executive session.

The chair laid before Senate House bill to amend the Pacific railroad acts, which was read by title. The bill provides that the net earnings of the railroad be ascertained by deducting only actual operating expenses from gross receipts without allowance for interest payments, and requires the companies to pay annually into the U. S. Treasury to create a sinking fund such sums as will aggregate in connection with percent of payments and amounts earned for government transportation, twenty five per cent of their respective net receipts as above defined, and if this should leave them unable to pay the interest on prior mortgages the Secretary of the Treasury may abate the 25 per cent requirements sufficient to allow paramount claims to be satisfied. The amount of these annual payments are estimated by the bill at nine million five hundred thousand dollars each for the Union and Central Pacific companies, and three hundred and fifty thousand for Kansas Pacific.

During a long discussion whether the bill should be referred to the judiciary committee or the railroad committee, the morning hour expired and the matter was laid over.

Thurman from the judiciary committee reported back the resolution of January last, instructing the committee to inquire into various matters relating to the Pacific Railroad, and three bills introduced by Dorsey and West in January and March last, to amend the Pacific Railroad acts, together with a written report and bill to amend and alter the Pacific Railroad acts of 1862 and 1864. Report ordered printed, and bill placed on calendar.

Sargent was excused from further service in conference committee on the sundry appropriation bill on account of sickness, and Windom was appointed.

On motion of Paddock, the joint resolution authorizing the President to accept the service of volunteers to aid in suppressing the Sioux Indian hostilities was taken from the table and referred.

The committee on appropriations reported favorably on the Senate bill providing for the construction of the Washington monument. The report was placed on the calendar.

House.

Barris, chairman of the committee on elections reported resolutions on the Louisiana contested election case, declaring Darrell, sitting member, as entitled to the seat; adopted.

The bill providing for the sale of Fort Kearney military reservation, in Nebraska, was taken from the Speaker's table and passed.

Harris, from the committee on naval affairs, reported a bill relating to the promotion of commanders on the retired list of the navy. The bill provides that the Secretary of the Navy may promote to the rank of Rear Admiral, in addition to the nine allowed by law, Commodores on the retired list who have performed distinguished services, who, being at the outbreak of the rebellion, citizens of any State engaged in the rebellion, exhibited fidelity in adhering to the flag of the Union; passed.

Hewett, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported back the resolution declaring the action of Robert C. Schenck, while U. S. Minister to England, in becoming a director in the Emma mine and his position in connection with the shares of said Company, and the vendor therefor, as ill-advised, unfortunate and incompatible with the duties of his position; adopted.

The Speaker laid before the House a communication from the Argentine Congress congratulating Congress on the event of the United States having reached its Centennial, referred.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the bill for the protection of the Rio Grande frontier from cattle thieves and marauders from Mexico.

Townsend, in the course of his speech, commented severely on the Democratic policy of cuttings down the strength of the army from what he called its present pitiable force of 25,000 men, and asserted that it was as much owing to the desire to get rid of the colored regiments as to the professed purpose of economy. He ridiculed that profession, and warned the Democrats of the House that if they went on in their work to cripple the government and to disgrace it before foreign nations, they would awaken a spirit such as had been awakened in 1860, and which had never been and would not be put down.

On motion of Banning, the Senate bill in relation to leave of absence of army officers, was concurred in and the House adjourned.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, July 11.

Hon. Heister Clymer sworn and testified Caleb P. Marsh gave evidence before the committee of which he was chairman. Witness produced the original testimony of Marsh before the managers and McMahon. He proposed to put it in evidence to show that the facts were brought out by this committee, and when the Secretary of War was notified of the testimony, that he read it over and finally tendered his resignation on account of it. The Senate could draw its inference from this conduct.

Carpenter opposed the admission of the testimony and said if it should be admitted he would show that the committee had threatened Belknap that unless he resigned before a certain time he would be impeached. Before a vote was taken on admitting the testimony Clymer was further interrogated, and testified as to writing a note to the Secretary of War on the 29th of February requesting his presence before the committee that the Secretary of War did appear in response to invitation, and the testimony of Marsh was read to him, and he replied, "Some of the statements therein I know to be true, some false and others I know nothing about." Belknap then asked time to employ counsel and the committee took a recess until 4 P. M. to allow him to do so. He subsequently appeared with Judge Black for his counsel and produced a letter of resignation as Secretary of War. The letter of resignation and reply of the President accepting the same were read and witness testified he wrote to the President to learn the hour the resignation was accepted and was informed it was about 10:20 A. M., March 2d.

The offer of the managers to submit the testimony of Marsh taken before the House committee was allowed.

Defense wanted to examine Evans, and there was no objection.

The prosecution would now close, with the understanding that they should have the right to examine Evans when put on the stand by defense.

Carpenter said defense could not begin its side of the case until after the prosecution closed. It was probable the defense would examine a few witnesses. Evans was the most important one and they wanted him first. A telegram from Fisher, partner of Evans, was read, dated St. Louis, July 10, announcing that Evans had left Fort Sill for Washington, and that he would be here to morrow.

Edmunds inquired if counsel would state what they proposed to prove by Evans.

Carpenter—We will not, we cannot do so in justice to our client.

Pending the discussion, the Senate sitting as a court, adjourned until 12 o'clock to morrow, and legislative business was resumed.

The committee on judiciary moved that the Senate disagree to amendment to the House bill to amend the bankrupt act and ask for a committee of conference. So ordered. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 12.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of articles of impeachment against W. W. Belknap, late secretary of War.

T. J. Fisher was sworn. He corroborates Marsh's testimony as to the payment to Belknap. He had read the contract between Marsh & Evans and the money had been paid in accordance with its terms. Belknap had never to his knowledge written to his firm on the subject of the complaints from troops about excessive charges.

Carpenter asked leave to have read a letter from Marsh to Clymer's committee in which Marsh, to avoid testifying, pleads his wife's illness in New York as the cause of his inability to appear and testify, and also stated he made the contract with Belknap.

McMahon assented to this, but desired also the other letter to appear as evidence, in which Marsh promised to bring the contract with Evans. To this Carpenter objected, but the objection was overruled and the letters placed in evidence. The point gained by the defense being that Marsh made no contract with Belknap, but only with Evans.

Heister Clymer was called and testified he received the letters from Marsh previously mentioned.

Carpenter asked how long the committee had been engaged in investigating the affairs of the war department.

McMahon objected and a lively dispute arose between him and Carpenter, during which the latter charged that the managers were not trying to throw light on the case and McMahon retorted with much spirit and ability. Clymer's evidence presented nothing new, and at the conclusion announced that McMahon and the managers had concluded the case in chief for the United States but would demand the right to place Evans on the stand when he arrived.

Gen. Pope sworn for the defense testified to Belknap's excellent character, etc. Commissary Gen. McFeely also attested the pure character of Belknap and his management of the War Department.

Carpenter submitted a letter from Lieut. Gen. Sheridan dated March 29, 1872, stating he had examined the circular on the subject of post traders issued 25th March, and thought very well of it so far as troops were concerned it was especially fair.

Adjutant Gen. Townsend was recalled and testified that he forwarded the letter of Marsh, making application for a post tradership, and also a letter of Gen. Grierson, complaining of abuses at Fort Sill to the Secretary of War through the ordinary course of business.

Col. Davis, Inspector General, United States, was sworn and testified he knew Post Traders Durfee and Peck. They had Forts Rice, Stevenson and Sully. Before proceeding further with the examination of this witness, Carpenter said he desired to state to the Senate that it would be impossible for the defense to go on without the witness, Evans, and asked the court to adjourn over some reasonable time to allow him to get here.

Conkling submitted the following: Ordered, that the Senate will receive any evidence, otherwise competent, which the counsel for the respondent says will be connected with the case by the testimony of witness Evans; agreed to.

Davis testified that, so far as his knowledge went, the manner in which the War Department had been conducted by the late secretary was good. His character had been one of integrity and honesty.

Gen. Hancock was called, but it was announced that he was too sick to attend to day.

H. L. Crosby, chief clerk in the War Department, was recalled and testified that after the passage of the law of 1870 with regard to post traderships, the Secretary of War called upon all department commanders to report the names of persons acting as post traders within the limits of the command. He testified that Evans was recommended by all the officers at Fort Sill. He understood that the order of March was prepared by Gen. McDowell for the purpose of counteracting the abuses complained of in the N. Y. Tribune.

Q.—Did the Secretary of War express any desire to have all the charges complained of in that article remedied? A.—The paragraphs in the order, according to my understanding, were framed to remedy the charges in that article.

The defense submitted an extract from the report of the Secretary, dated Nov. 20, 1875, calling attention to the law providing for the appointment of post traders and suggesting that a law be passed giving the appointment of sutlers to the department commanders.

C. C. Auger testified as far as he had relations with Belknap, his administration was regarded as a just and able one.

Ex Gov. Ralph Blow, of Iowa, Senators Allison and Wright, Gens. Ruger, Belnet and A. A. Humphrey, R. B. March, Judge Advocate, Gen. Dunn, and Hon. J. A. Kasson all testified to the integrity and ability of Belknap.

Carpenter renewed his request that the court would adjourn until the arrival of witness, Evans. Without taking action on the matter the Senate sitting as a court adjourned until 12 o'clock to-morrow.

Payment of Interest Postponed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12.—Payment of interest on the public debt is again postponed.

Turkish War News.

The Montenegrins and Insurgents occupied Anti on Turkish territory, but were dislodged. Both sides suffered considerably.

VIENNA, July 12.—It is stated that Russia will not take any step in the Eastern question without an understanding with all the great powers. Consequently the general peace of Europe will be preserved.

The Turkish war minister has resolved to assimilate the Bashi Bazouks with the regular troops. The engagement between the Turks and Servians yesterday was unimportant.

LONDON, July 12.—The Times, in a leading editorial article, says the prevailing impression is that the Servian invasion is at an end, and the question now is whether the Turks will be able to carry the war across the Servian frontier and obtain the great political advantage of a negotiation while in possession of conquered territory.

The London Times' Berlin special has the following: In the Reichstadt interview Count Andrassy offered to mediate between Russia and England. Count Andrassy seems to have had reason to hope that Germany would co-operate in mediation, Russia having given no definite answer, the situation seems unchanged. In the negotiations preceding the above offer, Count Andrassy said he was unable to consent to any territorial change in Turkey, unless approved by other powers. He was, however, willing to maintain neutrality.

Disraeli's Foreign Policy.

The direction of foreign affairs has been to a large extent taken by Disraeli into his own hands, so much so as to excite comment.

Irish Sunday Law.

LONDON, July 12.—In the House of Commons this morning, Smythe's bill closing the Irish public houses on Sunday, passed to a second reading without division. The Government assents to the bill, but will propose an amendment.

Spanish National Debt.

MADRID, July 12.—Congress has adopted the ministerial plan for settlement of the national debt.

Servian Losses.

The Telegraph's Vienna special says a moderate calculation shows that the Servians in nine days have lost 5½ per cent. of forces. There is considerable discouragement at Belgrade. The special says: I hear on very trustworthy authority that the Servians are about to crave amnesty through the intervention of Russia.

Battle at Podogoritza.

RAGUSA, July 11.—Turkish advices received here state that an engagement had occurred at Podogoritza between two battalions of Turkish regulars, assisted by volunteers, and 7,000 Montenegrins. The latter were driven from their fortifications, losing 400 killed and 800 wounded, including 30 officers. The Turkish loss only amounted to 76.

Reuter's Telegraph Co. received a dispatch stating that firing was audible throughout Monday in the direction of Podogoritza. The Turks endeavored to reopen the road to Medun, but the attempt failed. There was fighting throughout the day near Kernanizon, on Lake Scutari. The Turks suffered considerable loss.

BELGRADE, July 12.—A Turkish gunboat has bombarded Kosmets, which was previously captured by the Servians. Some houses were ignited.

The Harbor of Klek to be Closed.

VIENNA, July 12.—The Presse says it was agreed at the Reichstadt interview to close the harbor of Klek immediately against the landing of Turkish troops.

The King of Greece in London.

LONDON, July 12.—The King and Queen of Greece arrived in London to day, where they were met by the Prince of Wales and proceeded to Windsor.

Attempted Political Murder.

LONDON, July 12.—In Ecuador, an attempt has been made to assassinate Juan Montalo, a prominent leader of the advanced liberal party. The attempt was headed by a son of Emanuel Gomez de la Tarre, Minister of State, who in consequence has been forced to resign.

Politics in the Columbian States.

Peorciano Leiva, of Honduras, by the convention with Salvador, has renounced his title to the Presidency, and General Medinot remains as provisional President. Peace is thus restored.

A meeting has been held in Salvador in favor of Don Rafael, of Salvador, for the Presidency.

Ex President Guardia, of Costa Rica, was last seen at the port of La Libertad, Salvador. He is supposed to be intent on securing the aid of Guatemala in adjusting the disputes between Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

In Nicaragua the report gains ground that Harry Meiggs, of Peruvian railroad fame, is in treaty for the building of the Nicaragua inter-oceanic ship canal.

A correspondent of the Sentinel says: "The new discoveries of mines on Burnt river, has created quite a sensation. Messrs. Fred Bolina and the McCord Bros., have built a mill of two arrastas on Shaly creek that will be propelled by water power. It will be in operation this coming week. They have about four hundred tons of float rock that is marvelously rich. Messrs. L. O. Sterns, John Halpin and Wolf Ancenger are it is believed, the discoverers of the true vein of that section. Their mine is about a quarter of a mile south of the Bolina & Co. mine, and about 500 feet higher in altitude. The vein is ten inches wide and prospects very rich in free gold."

The grasshoppers are again devastating a portion of Montana.

Walla Walla's celebration cost $780 41, and she has $87 34 left of the fund collected.

Sixty-two thousand buffalo robes will be shipped from Benton, Montana, this season.

A halibut weighing 75 pounds, and the first ever caught in the bay at Seattle, was caught there on last Monday.

It will take $6,000 to repair the damage caused to the Walla Walla and Wallula railroad by the late freshet.

Gov. Ferry and his wife, who have just returned from the East were handsomely received by their friends at Olympia.

Diphtheria has made its appearance in Seattle since the last rains. The Tribune thinks the rain brings on the disease, and says it leaves a question for the doctors.

The Masonic fraternity are taking steps to erect a monument in the cemetery of that order at Seattle, in memory of Capt. Jeff. Howell, the ill-fated commander of the lost Pacific.

Twenty head of horses were run off by Indians from Kelly's range, on the Chug, fifty miles north of Cheyenne, on the 10th ult. and Capt. Eagan started in pursuit. They crossed the Platte nine miles above Laramie.

Mr. Freeman has been removed from the agency of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. on the Sound. This action was to reduce expenses, and his place will not be supplied, the captains acting hereafter as agents.

A Montana paper says, "Hing Wo, Ah Wo Chang Wo and Sin Wo were expelled from town the other day by an anti-Chinese society, and in leaving the town one Wo did tread upon another's heels, so fast they followed."

We learn from the Idaho Statesman that the miners, numbering 150, employed in the Golden Chariot mine at Owyhee, have captured Mr. Baldwin, the superintendent, and propose to hold him as a hostage until the wages due, them for May and June are paid.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co. has given bonds in the sum of $80,000 to answer the suit against the steamer City of Panama by Mrs. Phelps, who, it will be remembered, fell down the hatchway of that vessel last winter and received severe injuries, for which she now seeks to recover $40,000 damages.

The Seattle city election last Monday resulted in the choice of G. A. Weed for Mayor, over Beriah Brown, by 17 majority; Turnbull beat Wyckoff 100 votes for marshal, and Messrs. John Leary, Thos. Clancy, W. W. Barker, S. Kenny, G. W. Hall, W. N. Bell and C. W. Moore were chosen Councilmen.

The southeastern portion of Arizona, now enclosed in the immense confines of the Chiricahua reservation, and heretofore the seat of Apacha dominion, and the nursery of lawlessness and crime, is a rich domain of mountain and valley, embracing some of the best mineral and agricultural features of the Territory.

Mrs. Ellen Foley, of Ottawa City, Canada, desires information of her husband, Patrick Foley, who left Virginia City, Montana, for Puget Sound in the spring of 1875. He is described as a laborer, 28 years of age, with fair complexion, dark brown hair, height about 5 feet 9 inches rather thin and stoops slightly.

According to the Watchman, the Fourth was turned into a day of general drunkenness at Walla Walla. That paper says: "The whole town was drunk. What a comment on a sober community! As now maintained, we are inclined to believe the observance of the Fourth of July is a curse to the country, and unless its character can be changed for the better, the whole thing had best become a legend of the past."

Some time since Leopold Cohn left Denver in a hurry to claim a big fortune left him by a rich but dead uncle in Germany. He reached Nevada and stopped at Virginia City, waiting for more definite information about his fortune. This gave officer Force time enough to catch up with him, the result being that Cohn is again in Denver, under bail of $1,500 for obtaining goods under false pretenses.

For some reason or other the Walla Walla postoffice has been reduced from a second class to a third class office. This change in class reduces the pay of the postmaster from $2,100 to $1,700 per annum. The change is inexplicable for the reason that the business of the office is steadily increasing, the returns for the first six months in this year being in excess of a corresponding period in 1875.

At the Indian village of Jamestown, near Dungeness, W. T., July 5th, the following Indians were married by Rev. Mr. Eells: Lord Jim Balch, head chief of the Clallams, and Se ahm its ah; Chubby and Maggie, Carpenter John and Sally, Cook House Billy and Annie, Old Slaze and Tuts tin it; Tenas John and Niyote; Que uk and Hoe-a-soot; Mike and Hwitch-tza; Neil and Susie; Charley and Lucy, Port Discovery John and Jennie. All of them are Clallams, living at Jamestown, and all but one own land at that place.

Last Monday evening a young couple were married in Walla Walla against the will of the bride's "old man," who, however, attended the wedding, unable to prevent it but determined to make trouble, if possible. He found his opportunity when some one introduced to him the father of the happy groom. Instead of taking the proffered hand of the man who now had a joint interest in the couple, the "old man" drew a long glittering knife and went for the other "parient," who stood not upon the order of his going, but got up and dusted.

Last Saturday, while Joe Hobert was at work near his house, located about four miles above Walla Walla, on Mill creek, his dog, which was with him, suddenly bounded into the brush at some unseen object. At that moment a crash was heard, and lo! a cougar rushed from the thicket and climbed a tree with the dog in his mouth. Mr. H., aided by Mr. John Kirby finally succeeded in killing the cougar, which had been a terror for many months to the whole neighborhood, especially to Lake McCrain, to whom he barely left fowl enough to relish with green peas on the Fourth.

A correspondent of the Times, writing from Idaho City under date of June 30th, says: "Times are pretty good in the old basin this season, and miners are taking out more money than they have for several years past. Hall & Keene cleaned up from their drifting claim in Gold Hill $16,000. Several other parties have cleaned up from $2,000 to $10,000. Quartz is all the rage now, two mills going up and ledges being found almost every day. Some of them prospect big. There is no doubt but there are as good paying ledges here as are to be found on the coast, and the miners are going after them, not for speculation, as, in former days, but for their real value."

A DAY AT PRINCETON.

WHAT MANNER OF TOWN IT IS—AND ITS GRAND OLD SCHOOL.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

About 40 miles away, up on the Pennsylvania railroad, or rather at the terminus of a branch road three or four miles in length, is a rather quiet, conservative old town, which has been attracting a great many Philadelphia visitors during the past week, visitors who have dared to hazard the success of the great Exhibition by leaving the city to hear the commencement exercises of the College of New Jersey at the quaint old town of Princeton, located on the banks of the raging Delaware and Raritan "canawl," a thread of water by the way which the Princetonian athletes have made serviceable in preparing them for success in more than one college regatta. Princeton is a quaint old town, sure enough, one of the oldest on the continent, and but a small town yet, numbering perhaps less than 6,000 inhabitants, whose lease of life and principal claim to the respectful consideration of the public arises from its being the seat of this famous college, not to mention its close proximity to the Delaware and Raritan canal aforesaid. Who will undertake to say whether the town, the canal or the college was there first, or what was the influence of each on the others? We wont. Among municipal plants Princeton might be, not paradoxically, called both an annual and a perennial. Annual in that it dies every summer, or at least passes into a state of coma, for when you dismiss those roystering college boys and send 'em home to their doting [illegible] and mammas, to the watering places and the rejuvenating breezes of the sea shore, you sap the very life blood of the town, but the old place is perennially fresh in the affections of those familiar with its history and associations, an ever green and present memory in the hearts of those who have been nurtured within its walls, and the visitor [illegible] attracted thither, [illegible] always bear away a pleasant recollection of its many salient and attractive features, its grand old trees and stretches of avenue, its college campus embowered in green and covered with structures of the most beautiful and substantial architecture, the groups of manly and ambitious students who throng the college portals, and the scholarly men of its faculty who are doing here as their life work what is to leave its impress upon generations yet unborn. The presence of a standard institution like that at Princeton, [illegible] when it is the overtopping and overshadowing attraction of the community, the one thing which permeates the lives of all its denizens, must show itself in the broad and liberal culture of its people and an all-pervading, scholarly atmosphere, which is almost unknown in our busy centers of trade. Growing up amidst such associations, surrounded by such influences, the desires, the [illegible], and the ambitions begotten must appear in the completely rounded lives of the people. Princeton stands [illegible], as it were, from the noise and confusion of the great highway, and is a cozy and [illegible] just adapted to the wants of the book worm or the ambitious [illegible]. Unlike Harvard it does not stand on the outskirts of busy Boston, or Yale in the [illegible] heart of a strong and vigorous city, but while just half way between New York and Philadelphia, the greatest cities of the continent, the student is happily removed from the seductive influences which attach to both of these great centers of trade. Princeton has succeeded grandly, and ought to have a [illegible] place in the hearts of all who wish A [illegible] institution well. Its present wealth is [illegible]ly estimated at $7,000,000, and with the settlement of the estate of the late John C. Green, it is confidently expected that nearly $1,[illegible],000 more will be realized. Its college buildings, several of which have been erected since the accession in 1868 of Dr. McCosh to the presidency, are inferior to neither those of Yale or Harvard, and the present prospects of the college are most satisfactory. Having grown up under the auspices of such men as Aaron Burr, Jonathan Edwards, Witherspoon and James McCosh, why shouldn't its success have been assured? We have been recently reminded that while Princeton was the alma mater of James Madison and other great men, it is also that of Belknap and Robeson, not to mention our own Senator Kelly,—pardon the insinuation, no reference to allusions intended. She may have given the world many mediocre men, but her alumni rolls radiate, too, some of the grandest names known to the continent, and her sons on the whole will rank fully the equals of any other American college in all the essentials of moral and intellectual manhood. The last was the 129th Commencement of the Princeton college—quite venerable as we of the American continent reckon time—and on Monday last the writer was an interested witness of the

EXERCISES OF CLASS-DAY.

Among the pleasantest features of the morning's entertainment, besides the class oration and poem, was what was termed the Memorial Oration, the presentation and unveiling by the spokesman of the class of '76 of their gift to the college of a marble bust of John Witherspoon, one of Princeton's earliest Presidents and the only clergyman and college President belonging to that grand old Continental Congress that gave us the Declaration of Independence. Amidst a tumultuous shout of applause, Dr. McCosh was called upon to accept, in behalf of the institution, this very appropriate gift, responding in his own Scottish accent, with an effort worthy of him in many respects, but marred by an unwelcome display of egot[illegible] characteristic of the man—making it a sort of combined and dovetailed eulogium of both Witherspoon and McCosh, with the latter standing forth as really the most prominent figure. To one who had entertained an almost idolatrous admiration of the man commanding so high rank as a clergyman, a college President and a great metaphysician, this conspicuous display of self, on such an occasion, was as unwelcome as it was unexpected. The world has awarded an enviable position and gladly accorded the highest praise to the name and work of Dr. McCosh, and will secure to him the full benefit of both without any such efforts upon his part so unworthy so great a man. The exercises of Class Day were renewed in the afternoon in the open air of the college campus. In the center of the ground, surrounded by the amphitheater, occupied by the great audience was sunk half way down an old cannon which had seen service in the revolution; while near at hand was a companion piece, which the boys of Rutgers College surreptitiously captured last fall, but which they were compelled to restore after a bitter contest and mutual recriminations. Around the old cannon sat the class of '76, numbering over 100 men and boasting of having among its foreigners a native of Japan and twenty-three Jerseymen, taking their final smoke, while listening to the reading of the class history, the distribution of burlesque prizes and the valedictory. Our admission ticket happened to entitle us to admission to section B only, in the broiling sun, and over in section B we sat on the shady side of a huge umbrella, the thermometer standing at about 91° in the shade. The class history and the distribution of prizes, each occupying nearly two hours, of course met with "larfter" and sallies of applause from the initiated. The young man in section B, however, failing to appreciate many of the obscure personal allusions and the broiling sun—entertained himself for the most part in the vigorous use of a 5 cent fan, and in listening to the comments of a well posted companion. "That's Dr. John Hall over there in that grey duster, one of the biggest guns of New York Presbyterianism, and the pastor of that $1,000,000 church on Fifth Avenue. He's not a Princetonian, but he is a simon pure Irish Presbyterian, who never opens his mouth without saying something, and when he does open it he doesn't put his foot in it either—haw-haw." "Do you see the lady sitting next to that tree, just opposite, with that large fan in her hands? That's the daughter of Dr. McCosh, and that young fellow by her side is her brother who, singularly enough, coming as he does from such a family, takes the leading prizes as one of the best athletes in the college, though he's a very fair scholar too." "That tall, slim fellow wearing a straw hat and coming this way with a baton in his hands, is a son of Wm. E. Dodge—you remember his brother Arthur was lately married to one of the daughters of Post-master-General Jewell." "This lame man coming this way, limping, with a cane and that enormous boot-sole meant to remedy the defect of a short leg, is a son of Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger." And so comments on the personnel of the audience continued, till among the seven red-headed members of the class of '76—humorously designated the "class rubies"—another son of Robt. Bonner was called up by the prize distributor, to receive, with his six companions, a bottle of hair dye. Finally the heat, the approaching close of the exercises, and a general disposition to leave anyway, called us to other quarters. Not the least of the attractions of Princeton is

THE OLD GRAVEYARD,

Almost equal in its wealth of historic [illegible] to that famous one up in New Haven, adjoining the campus of Old Yale. Here rest [illegible], if not all, of the College Presidents. First comes Aaron Burr side by side with that of his traitor son, and adjoining, near that of [illegible] the father-in-law of the senior Burr and his [illegible] as President of the college. A very striking monument in the [illegible] is pointed out as that of an exceptionally brilliant son of Gen. Roger A. Pryor, [illegible] ability and the [illegible] whose early death secured him the recollection of a fitting [illegible] tribute from his college [illegible]. The [illegible] known as the relic hunter, has visited this cemetery, and left his mark on more than one mutilated [illegible] of work which has called out an indignant protest from some one who has [illegible] out and [illegible] his views, [illegible] in the [illegible] which is indicated in his [illegible] tory conundrum—"[illegible] young [illegible] why do you [illegible] mental slabs?" The young man's [illegible] isn't recorded. The inscriptions on many of the older tablets are in Latin and [illegible] difficult of [illegible] as that [illegible] to Livy. The story of the junior Aaron Burr's ambitious, brilliant, [illegible] less life, is, [illegible] in the [illegible] simple [illegible] or [illegible] the [illegible] of the man [illegible] last [illegible] "Aaron Burr. Born Feb. 6, 1756. Died Sept. 14, 1836. A Colonel in the Army of the Revolution. Vice President of the United States from 1801 to 1805." Only this and [illegible], to stand as a [illegible] of one of [illegible] brilliant and [illegible] in American politics. What a [illegible] this is, and what a [illegible]. We [illegible] the [illegible] in this old [illegible] the riddle of life and the [illegible] of mundane affairs, [illegible] we [illegible] away to Philadelphia and the [illegible] with the [illegible] and its crowning [illegible], the [illegible] This sketch is a [illegible] and [illegible], but one day, [illegible] to [illegible] daining the advice of one [illegible] has told us [illegible] to [illegible] as long as the [illegible] out, it is offered for what it [illegible]. It was almost dark on Monday [illegible] Chinese lanterns were just [illegible] up the old [illegible] the [illegible] day for 1876, as we [illegible] southward, [illegible] over to the [illegible] of the [illegible] Jersey [illegible] you wave. Your [illegible] have and look well [illegible] up, but the [illegible] of [illegible] are in the [illegible] all, and perhaps grit, and [illegible] and [illegible] in a [illegible] the want of a [illegible] of [illegible] though bearing the distinguished [illegible] of a McCosh. Ta-ta.

CENTENNIAL [illegible]

The exhibition is still in [illegible] but a long-suffering public, [illegible] with Centennial [illegible], will gladly [illegible] any failure to refer to the subject. [illegible] nine out of ten of the [illegible] Philadelphians have not yet visited the grounds. Within the city are constantly recurring attractions, and the pleasure seeker is not limited in his [illegible] of entertainment. [illegible] Kiralfy's [illegible] is [illegible] of the leading attractions. Here, after a successful run of "Around the World in Eighty Days," they have just put on a dramatized version of Verne's "Trip to the Moon." At the "Walnut" Sothern is having everything in his own way in "Lord Dundreary," and everybody is laughing over him as the one irrepressibly funny man of his day. We have had the opera, too—and had it very bad. [illegible] week we had what was known as a [illegible] Congress—not such an one as [illegible] like a dread incubus upon poor Congress [illegible] Washington, but a sort of temporary Congress, whose only [illegible] known a partiality for Opera [illegible]. It included Kellogg, the great prima donna, Anna Louise Cary; Zelda Seguin, the English contralto; the tenor Brignoli; and [illegible], the great German baritone; and lastly, Mlle. Esmeralda Cervantes, harpist to His Majesty Dom Pedro, with beautiful brown hair, handsome face and plump, petite form, in gorgeously [illegible] dress, distracted all the susceptible young men. The [illegible] of the congress was disco[illegible]. The majority of better [illegible] people would make the opera an indictable nuisance, but their efforts will be fruitless as long as people of actual culture, education and apparent respectability will look you in the eye and calmly commend it, and even simulate a certain degree of enth[illegible]. Who will deliver us?

Oregonians continue to appear. Among those who appear on the Oregon register are Revs. Dr. Lindsley, Eliot, Doane and H. K. Hines, E. S. Kearney and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Holman, Dr. A. M. Loryea, Miss Lizzie T. Boise, Messrs. Smith and Stump, of Polk county, H. A. Johnson and Geo. S. Downing of Marion, Miss Robinson and Mr. Geo. A[illegible] of Yamhill, J. L. Carter, Rev. W. F. West, and we are now anxiously awaiting the [illegible] approach of H. H. Gilfry and Gen. M. V. Brown, fresh from the labors of the St. Louis convention. All in all Oregon has been remarkably well represented.

Now for a plunge into the mysteries of the Centennial Fourth of July. [illegible]

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 13 1876

TILDEN THE REFORMER

Mr Tilden appears to be possessed with the idea that whoever speaks of administrative reform is thinking of him. Before he was nominated he made himself ridiculous by egotistical references to himself as the central figure in the popular conception of reform. "They want reform and that means me." And now he responds to the notification of his nomination with a similar piece of self puffing on the same subject. From beginning there is nothing but reiteration of the same. "They want reform and that means me." The pith and marrow of his opening paragraph is presented in this modest way:

It may be permitted for me to say that my nomination was not a mere personal preference between citizens and statesmen of his Republic who might very well have been chosen for distinguished honor for so august a duty. It was rather a declaration of that illustrious body in whose behalf you speak in favor of administrative reform with which even it has associated me in the public mind.

Then he winds himself for another run and proceeds in this strain:

I am not without experience of the difficulty and labor of effecting an administrative reform when it requires a revolution in politics and measures long established in the government. If I were to judge by the year and a half I have been in State government I should say that the routine duties of trust I have had imposed on me are a small burden compared with that created by the attempt to change the policy of the government of which I have been the executive head. Especially is this so when reform has to be worked out with the co-operation more or less of public officers who have either been tainted with the evils to be redressed or have been incapacitated by the habit or toleration of wrongs to be corrected to which they have been consenting witnesses. I therefore, if your choice be ratified by the people at the election shall enter upon the great duties which would fall upon me not as a holiday recreation, but very much in that spirit of consecration in which the soldier enters battle.

That is the point. "They want reform, and that means me." But what is the administrative reform to which this Democratic statesman proposes to devote himself as a soldier on the battle field? All politicians of late use just such glittering generalities about reform. Anybody else can do it as well as Tilden. The intelligent citizen will be apt to require something a little more specific from Mr Tilden before accepting him as the embodyment of all the ideas worth having on the subject of reform. This meaningless twaddle is worn out. Mr Hayes comes squarely to the point and tells the country what he means by reform in the administration. He says in the best and bluntest English that if he is elected President it will be his care to put a stop to the farming out of offices to politicians and taking pay in party services. That can be understood. But Mr Tilden comes to no point. Perhaps he realizes that the Democrats are too hungry for the spoils of office to bear anything like a declaration of intention to abandon the spoils system. So he indulges in the shuffling self-laudation, and commits himself to nothing which would embarrass him in dividing the plunder of the government among his henchmen.

OREGON'S IMMIGRATION AGENT AT SAN FRANCISCO

Mr J E. Shepherd, resident agent at San Francisco for the Oregon Board of Immigration, is evidently doing faithful and efficient service. Not long since the Chronicle took occasion to deliver a lecture to Californians on their inactivity and apathy in the matter of immigration, and to allude, by way of comparison to the efficiency of Oregon's agent at San Francisco, who was doing more for Oregon than all the instruments California employed was doing for their State. And now we find in the Alta the result of some inquiry instituted by that paper touching the same subject. The Alta says Mr Shepherd "receives such immigrants as desire to go to Oregon, gives them all necessary information about government, railroad and other lands, and advises them as to the best localities for settlement in the State. This he is peculiarly competent to do, as a residence of sixteen years has posted him thoroughly on the advantages and peculiarities of Oregon and Washington Territory. [illegible] receiving and informing the new comers, Mr Shepherd procures them reduced fares to Portland and furnishes them with an order on the main office in that city for half-fare tickets to their destination. Upwards of 14 000 immigrants passed through San Francisco en route to Oregon during the past year." It is stated that about 250 immigrants a week, on an average, pass through San Francisco en route for Oregon. That is only 13 000 in the year, less than one fourth the number that would come if we had direct railway communication across the continent but considering the difficulty and expense of reaching Oregon by the present means of transportation it is a good showing indeed, and the influence of these 13 000 a year, should the stream grow no larger would be by no means inconsiderable in the development of the resources of the State.

Postmaster General Jewell whose appointment did as much as any the President ever made to give respectability to the Administration has been removed by the President to make room for one of the Force Bill crowd upon whom Grant placed his reliance when he was endeavoring to hold up the rotten carpet-bag governments of the South. Jewell can console himself in his enforced retirement with the reflection that there is more credit just now in being outside the Administration than in it. The straw bid mail contractors who [illegible] whom Jewell made such havoc can come to the front now and have their grievances redressed and their wounds healed.

A French chemist has made the discovery that alterations in writings that have been tampered with although they may defy the closest ocular inspection can be detected in a photographic image. It is said that however carefully the original ink may be erased there will remain traces enough to appear in the photograph. If this be true the difficulties in the way of determining whether bank checks or notes or bonds have been tampered with will be greatly lessened and the discovery be of great value to banks.

The Eastern question is no nearer settlement than it was six months ago. The French with Turkey and the revolted provinces widens and the disposition of the powers to interfere does not appear to be so strong as heretofore.

Another change seems to have been made in the office of collector of customs for this port. John Kelly, Esq., of Lane county is the man now.

Bristow and Wilson and Jewell are out. Tyner and Don Cameron are in. These are days of reform.

OREGON

The Jefferson Merchant Flouring Mills shut down after the 1st of July for six weeks.

The steamer Empire on her trip up remained in Port Orford about a week in consequence of the heavy northwest gale that prevailed during that time.

The circuit court for Marion county has adjourned sine die. The case of Ben Holladay et al vs S G Elliott et al was transferred to the U S circuit court.

The Democrat says: The water in the Upper Willamette is getting thin very fast. The light draft steamers City of Salem and Orient are still running but have to work their way gingerly over the bars and crooked places.

Charles Sutton while out hunting, last Sunday in the forks of the Santiam at a place known as Crackers Neck near widow Caltans in some way shot himself shattering his right arm so badly that it was necessary to have it amputated. The operation was performed on the day following.

Some evil minded persons who were without fear of the Empire City police on the morning of the Fourth took the cannon, the property of the citizens of Empire and ran it down on the wharf took up some of the planks and cast it into the bay where there is about three feet of water at low tide.

Fishermen on the lower Columbia are requested by the C R F B A Society to be on the lookout for the body of Frank Ward a member of the society who was drowned at Woody Island on Monday July 3d. Any information of the recovery of the remains may be addressed to Thos Dealy Astoria, or sent to the Astorian office.

The Polk county Telegram says: "The rain for the last three days has probably spoiled some hay, and perhaps has not been beneficial to the fall wheat. Otherwise the showers have been refreshing to both vegetable and animal life. Crops promise as good yield as usual, the late wheat especially being benefited by the late rain. It is thought by some that one-third more hay will be saved than last year."

The Mercury says: A rumor has reached Salem that Mr John Vallet, living on Allen's prairie, above Sublimity, had his house burned on the 7th inst. It is supposed to have been the work of incendiaries from the fact that a piece of paper was found in the door yard on which was scrawled a warning for him to leave the country and threatening if he did not that he and his wife would be murdered etc. We cannot vouch for the truthfulness of the rumor but if true the parties making such threats and committing such acts should be ferreted out and brought to punishment.

PORTRAIT OF THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE.—Mr Hayes is a good sized well-formed man. He is every way well made, has a handsome head and a rather handsome body, and a face which would introduce him favorably anywhere. His complexion is light, skin florid, temperament composed of the vital motive and mental in almost the same proportions. He is neither too fast nor too slow excitable or sluggish, but is at once sufficiently energetic original comprehensive dignified and resolute. He is more profound than showy and has more application than versatility. He will finish what he begins, and make thorough work. He has a hopeful, happy nature is eminently social fond of home and all that belongs thereto, and as hospitable as he is thoughtful and considerate.—Republic

For the treatment of all Diseases of the Blood and Urinary Organs Female Complaints Hysterics etc all Diseases of the Brain Epilepsy Paralysis Dimness of Sight etc Contagious and Skin Diseases Loss of Power Nervous and Physical Debility Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness and all diseases arising from the indiscretion of early youth Gonorrhea Gleet, Syphilis Loss of Hair Sore Throat Glandular Swellings Rheumatism and Gout.

DR. R. PRICE

Having for a number of years made the above maladies the subject of his special study, and moreover by long and careful practice modified the treatment used and recommended by such eminent men as Doctors Ricord Lallamand Vardeau Vidal Wilson and others as applied by them in cold and humid climates so as to exactly suit the altered state of the constitution of persons who have been acclimatized in tropical and semi tropical countries, feels perfect confidence in undertaking the permanent and effectual cure of any of the above diseases of however long standing, or inveterate they may be with a certainty of not only eradicating the disorder but concurrently restoring the entire constitution to perfect health and vigor. The grand peculiarity of

DR. R. PRICE'S

Treatment consist in the unscrupulous rejection of all those deleterious mineral drugs which while they momentarily remove the symptoms poison the blood and permanently fix the diseases in the constitution which form the sole panacea of that unscrupulous horde of empirical charlatans who fleece their unsuspecting but too confiding dupes and for their gold requite them with shattered constitutions and unendurable existence and the prospect of an untimely and early grave.

BUY A "PLUMMER"

FAMILY DRYER.

WE ARE NOW RECEIVING A LARGE NUMber of orders for these Dryers. We manufacture six different sizes of the Circular kind and two of the new Upright kind, patented Jan 18 1876. For $200 we guarantee to do one fourth as much work as a $2 000 Alden Dryer and for $600 we guarantee to do as much as any Alden Dryer in this State. We also guarantee to do as good work as the Alden as our Fruit has been thoroughly tested and pronounced No 1 selling readily in this market at as good figures as the Alden. Now if you let your fruit rot this year it is your own fault, as the price is within the reach of all.

Send in your orders immediately as the season is upon us and we will soon have the golden harvest and rebuke this Alden monopoly and buy Dryers manufactured in your own State where you can see the parties who manufacture them.

CITY.

A TRIP TO ALBANY.—On Monday afternoon [illegible] train will carry to Albany, from [illegible] a party of about twenty gentlemen. [illegible] among those composing the party H. D. Sanborn, Esq.; W. H. Andrus [illegible] I. Beser of the Centennial committee; J. A. Chapman, representatives of the [illegible] of this city; W. A. Hart, 1st assistant [illegible] of the P. F. D.; R. C. White, Esq.; [illegible] Richtel and Robt. Holman, of the com[illegible] appointed to take charge of the tourna[illegible] the steam fire engines, and a [illegible] from each of the various fire com[illegible] of Portland. The handsome and ap[illegible] poem written by Mr R. C. White, [illegible] to the firemen of Albany, and read [illegible] last Saturday evening, on the [illegible] of the awarding and distribution of [illegible], will be formally presented [illegible] "gallant boys" of that city. [illegible] poem has been inscribed on parch[ment] [illegible] beautiful and thoroughly [illegible] by W. Lynn White, whose ele[illegible] penmanship requires no com[ment], and handsomely framed. On the occa[sion] [illegible] formal presentation, Mr. White, and an elocutionist of rare ability, [illegible] Prof. Hughes, the py[illegible] will also accompany the party. [illegible] fireworks prepared for the occa[sion]. The handsome gold medal, presented [illegible] of Linn Engine Co No. 2 for [illegible] work performed by the "little [illegible]" at the contest which took place on the [illegible] will also be formally presented the [illegible]. Mr. Sanborn telegraphed to Al[bany] informing them of the inten[tion of] the party to visit that place, and the [illegible] the same. The train will reach Al[bany] at 5:30, when the visiting party will [illegible] the depot by a delegation and es[corted] to where the meeting will be held. Al[illegible] with their proverbial hospitality, will [illegible] to receive the party, and strive to [illegible] brief stay in the city as pleasant [illegible]. The party will return to Port[land] [illegible] morning on the express train. [illegible] time is anticipated.

[illegible] HORSES.—We have heard some [illegible] the opinion that the parading of the [illegible] that had won purses during the cen[tennial] [illegible] along Fourth street, Tuesday [illegible] be regarded as a slur or reflec[tion] [illegible] animals that were defeated and [illegible] owners. Such, we are authorized to [illegible] the case, and it was never intend[ed] [illegible] inference of that nature should be [illegible] the circumstance of the parade. [illegible] persons who had been unable to [illegible] horses expressed a desire to [illegible], and it was in response to these requests [illegible] animals were brought out in the [illegible] they were. We are requested to state [illegible] owners of the horses that were de[illegible] wish to parade them publicly, if word [illegible] effect is left at the Holton House, an [opportun]ity will be pr[esen]ted.

[illegible] OF NATURE.—The wife of a farmer, [illegible] about 7 northeast of East Portland [gave b]irth a few days since to a son. There is [illegible] nothing remarkable about this cir[cum]stance, and the child in every particular [illegible] healthy and apparently well formed. [illegible] on inspecting the hands and feet of [the] little stranger, it was found that there [were] five fingers on each hand, and six toes on [each] foot, making the sum total of twelve toes, [illegible] and two thumbs. The attending [illegible] says that the feet and hands of the [illegible] perfectly formed and will develope.

[illegible] OF ARRESTS.—During the month of [illegible] [arre]sts have been made by the police, [as] follows: Drunk and disorderly, [illegible] fighting, 1; fast riding, 2; defacing [illegible]; larceny, 3; vagrant, 1; held on [illegible] county judge, 1; giving liquor to [illegible] using profane and abusive lan[guage] [illegible]; assault and battery, 11; assault [illegible] weapon, 1; indecent ex[illegible] breaking, 2.

[illegible] ESTABLISHED.—Happy Albina! [illegible] of mail facilities she is in no manner [illegible] to her "big sister" over the way. A [illegible] since a postoffice was established at [illegible] with a daily mail service. Mr. D. W. [illegible] is the accommodating P. M. It is a convenience to the Albanians, and a [illegible] duly appreciated by them.

[illegible]ALLATION.—Tuesday evening the follow[illegible]icers of Multnomah Tribe No. 3, Im[illegible] Order of Red Men, were installed by [illegible] Deputy Great Sachem, A. B. Hallock: [illegible] Eli Morrill; Senior Sagamore, W. [illegible]; Junior Sagamore, Thomas Hun[illegible].

[illegible]GATES.—The following persons were [illegible] delegates to attend the Grand Council [illegible] M. from Oneonta Tribe No. 4: A. B. [illegible], W. H. Utter, Theodore Barker and [illegible].

[illegible] COUNCIL.—Next Tuesday, the 18th [illegible] Grand Council I. O. R. M. of the [illegible] Oregon will convene in this city.

AMUSEMENTS.

ATKINS' BENEFIT.—Mr. Chas. M. Atkins, [illegible] and energetic manager of the [illegible] Minstrels, will be the recipient, this [illegible] at New Market Theater, of a compli[mentary] benefit tendered him by the citizens [illegible]. The benefit is designed to be a testimonial of appreciation of the [illegible] by the beneficiary to afford our [illegible] loving public a class of entertain[ment] [illegible] and grotesque, but in every [illegible] and refined. How well Mr. At[kins] [illegible] the expectations raised, the [illegible] best judge. Since the opening eve[ning] [illegible] has striven to please and [illegible] audiences, and if appearances are [illegible] they have succeeded admir[ably]. Atkins has brought the present [illegible] to this place at a heavy expense; [illegible] to the recent flood, and the numer[ous] [illegible] attractions during the week of [illegible], the receipts of the season [illegible] as large as the manager had [illegible]. In addition to this mani[festation] of public good will and appreciation [illegible] the benefit tendered Mr Atkins [illegible], in a monetary point of view, [illegible] toward making up the deficiency which exists at the [illegible] the present theatrical season. [illegible] the claims of the recipient, a most [illegible] programme has been prepared for [illegible] occasion. There will be new [illegible] sketches, new everything. Rus[illegible] Walls will exquisitely render a num[ber] [illegible]. Courtwright and Sutton will [illegible] new jokes and conundrums from [illegible] of fun. Linden will give his [illegible] female impersonations. Mackin [and] Wilson will do some of their cleverest [illegible] and athletic feats, and Norcross [illegible] "middle" in his usual neat and [illegible] style. A more attractive bill could [illegible] have been devised than will be pre[sented] [illegible] night. This is the last appearance [illegible] in Portland. Give Charley a [illegible] send off—he deserves it.

IN MEMORIAM.

[illegible] Taylor street Literary Society, at a [illegible] meeting held Monday evening, July [illegible], adopted the following resolutions:

[illegible], In view of the loss we have sus[tained] in the death of our friend and brother [illegible] D. Girard, it is but just that a recog[nition] of his many virtues be had, therefore [Resolv]ed, That in the death of Daniel D. [illegible], stricken down in the midst of his [illegible], this Society has sustained an irre[parable] loss, and its members mourn sincerely [the] death of a worthy brother.

[illegible], That although we cannot console the bereaved parents in their great affliction, yet we can mingle our tears with theirs, and [illegible] our heartfelt sympathy in their grief.

Resolved, That the secretary be instructed to furnish a copy of these resolutions to the par[ents] of the deceased; also that they be fur[nished] the several papers of the city for pub[lication], and spread on the records of this Society.

A little fellow who was fortunate enough to possess a flag, placed it at half-mast for his playmate—his neighbor—yesterday. The incident attracted much attention.

A few back numbers of the DAILY OREGONIAN, containing the fullest reports of the centennial celebration, remain on hand. Five numbers comprise the entire proceedings.

Considering the immense crowd, it is a remarkable circumstance that there were no fatal accidents during centennial week. In fact, there were very few accidents to chronicle at all.

There will be a shooting match at the White House next Saturday between those who each made three shots at the contest for the prize medal last Saturday. This will be for the third prize offered—$30 in coin.

On the 28th of June the following Oregonians were registered at the Pacific Coast Centennial Hall: Hiram Smith, Harrisburg; G. W. Upton, Portland; W. C. Morris, Salem; R. R. Laughlin and wife, North Yamhill.

A CARD OF THANKS.

At a called meeting of the Fire Department of the City of Albany, held on the evening of July 10, 1876, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, 1st. That we are highly grateful, and our thanks are particularly due to the officers and members of Willamette Engine Co. No. 1, of Portland, for the hospital manner in which they received and entertained us during our visit and stay Centennial week in the Metropolis.

2d. That we tend to the officers and members of the Centennial committee, and the citizens of Portland, and the officers and members of the Portland Fire Department, our sincere thanks for the many courtesies shown us while in that city, for which we shall hold them in high esteem.

3d. That the managers, judges and civil engineers of the engine contest deserve the thanks of true firemen for the prompt, able and impartial manner in which they discharged the duties devolving upon them.

4th. That we are under obligations and hereby tender our thanks to the editors of the OREGONIAN, Evening Journal, Bee and Standard for the fair and impartial reports published by them in their respective papers.

5th. That we acknowledge the greeting of welcome given us by the fire department and citizens of Salem while on our trip to and from Portland, and had it not been for unavoidable delay, would with pleasure have accepted their kind hospitalities.

6th. That Mr. W. C. Myers has our thanks for the use of his fine Percheron horses on the 4th instant.

7th. That Captain D. W. Baughman, officers and crew of the fine steamer Willamette Chief deserve, and we hereby tender them our thanks for doing all in their power to make our trip to and from Portland a pleasant and agreeable one.

8th. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to each of the Portland and Albany papers for publication.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

Our regular correspondent at Vancouver, under date of the July 12th, writes:

The Centennial being past our city is quieting down to real life again.

The Good Templars are enjoying a degree of prosperity in their new quarters.

The floods are subsiding rapidly, and the farmers will soon have their new crops in.

Mrs. S. R. Whipple, of this place, is improving in health, she having been ill for some time.

The rains of this week add thousands of dollars to the farmers on the high lands in this county.

Forty thousand trees to be budded this season in B. W. Brown's nursery, and the work has already begun.

There is a very large amount of good land in the north and eastern portions of this county yet unoccupied.

The walls of the new reservoir connected with the water works in this city are up and the work progressing rapidly.

McCarty, who was driven out of his hotel by the high water, returns in a few days, and will furnish just as good meals as ever.

Many of our citizens are on the look out as to what Congress will do as to the extension of time for the completion of the N. P. R. R.

The Hon. S. W. Brown treated your correspondent to some luscious mulberries from his improved stock of trees a few days since.

As Dr. Dillon is to vacate the chair editorial of the P. C. Advocate soon, very many of his friends in this place extend to him their best wishes.

The humdrum of life has really set in again, after the festivities of the 4th, and we, in this place, are pushing on in the various duties of life as heretofore.

A young lady of this city one day last week whilst engaged in a musical rehearsal discovered a snake in the window charmed by the sweet sound of the music.

The Hon. Mr. Smallwood, of this place, late of Kansas, and register in the land office in this city, expresses great satisfaction as to our climate, it being so much cooler here than in the Eastern States where so many persons die from the excessive heat.

On Monday last a little boy in this city swallowed a shoe buckle of good size which lodged in the throat. Several physicians were called, and Dr Alexander, U. S. A., placed the little fellow across his knees and then gave him a few blows on the back, which dislodged the buckle and relieved the boy.

The nomination day has come, the dullest of the year
When every politician chap struts round like chanticleer
He flaps his little wings and crows, and makes a mighty noise
And then he strikes the candidate for cash to "stake the boys"
Who immediately thereafter appear arrayed in one of Fishel & Roberts new summer suits.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening at the rooms.

In the absence of the president and vice president, on motion Mr J. B. Montgomery was chosen temporary president.

Minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

In obedience to instructions from the board, Mr. Reid, the secretary, forwarded, some weeks ago, the following circular letters to all the State Senators and Representatives elect in the State:

Dear Sir: Permit me kindly, on behalf of the mercantile interests of Oregon, to ask your careful consideration of the enclosed resolutions of this board, and perhaps you will do the board the pleasure of saying in a few words whether or not you are in favor of the next State legislature carrying into effect all of the suggestions made, or, if not all, will you kindly say which of the suggestions you are in favor of and which you are against. If convenient, we shall be glad to be enlightened by your valuable opinion and advice.

A number of responsive letters have been received, and were read last evening, from members elect of the legislature, in which they expressed their views in relation to the subjects of railroads, immigration, etc., favoring or opposing.

A communication was read from D. Bequette which was referred to the committee on trade and commerce.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

The following report from the committee on railroads was read:

PORTLAND, Ogn., 12th July 1876.

Gentlemen: In accordance with your instructions of 12th April, 1876, your committee met together and framed a letter to C. P. Huntington, Esq. (copy of which was printed in the newspapers and is hereto attached), which, along with the revised bill referred to, they submitted to that gentleman.

The committee beg to report herewith Mr. Huntington's reply of 31st May, 1876 suggesting a conference with your committee, as to which, and the various matters mentioned in Mr. Huntington's letter, your committee ask instructions. Respectfully submitted by

W. S. LADD,
HENRY FAILING,
J. McCRAKEN,
WILLIAM REID
Committee on Railroads.

MR. HUNTINGTON'S REPLY.

NEW YORK, May 31, 1876.

Messrs. W. S. Ladd, Henry Failing and others, Railroad Committee, Board of Trade, Portland, Oregon: Gentlemen—I have the honor to acknowledge your favor of the 28th ult. in reference to the proposition to construct a railroad from the main line of the Central Pacific in Western Nevada, to Portland, or to a connection with some road terminating there.

I have considered your remarks thereupon, and am led to regret that there had not been some informal comparison of views upon the subject, with a view of discovering some common ground of understanding before this correspondence was published or popularly discussed.

The memorandum proposal submitted at your request, although crudely thrown together, was sent because it contained the terms on which my associates would undertake the work, and because the tone of your first letter implied some emergency requiring immediate reply.

As I suppose no action will be taken on the subject prior to the meeting of your Legislature next autumn, there is leisure for a further comparison of opinions. We are at a great disadvantage in our interchange of views carried on by a correspondence by letter, at this great distance, and I trust some more favorable opportunity may occur, before your Legislature convenes, for a conference of those chiefly interested.

In the meantime, so far as your suggestions for a modification of my proposal are concerned, I may say that on some, if not most, of the points touched, there is no serious disagreement between us.

In regard to the time for the completion of the railroad connections, I have already explained that it is not expected that we should consume the ten years as stated. This limitation was made in order to cover all contingencies of financial disturbances, or other cause beyond our control. So far as lies in our power, if begun, the road will be pushed to completion as rapidly under the conditions I have stated, as under those you name. We prefer the longer period, as the shorter one, if adopted, might interfere with our command of assistance here and in Europe, where such rapid railroad building is unknown.

In regard to legislation looking to some assistance, at some future time from Portland, the place chiefly to be benefited, its exercise is discretionary, and entails no liability on the part of your city without the consent of its people.

The extent, therefore, of that authority is of secondary importance, except that in view of an anticipated growth of the city in population, wealth and trade, it may be well to ask now for power ample for future requirements. Your allusion to the action of the city of San Francisco, however, is an unfortunate one for your argument.

If, as you say, the privilege of purchasing the State lands is of no practical value as a reliance for railroad construction, there can be no objection to striking it out of the bill. It is proper that I should say, in that connection, that we had been led to believe that while the State of Oregon was poor in money assistance to railroads, she had plenty of good lands, and with this view have striven to meet the views of your board in cutting down the money assistance to the lowest possible figure, by adopting as much as possible of her other resources, in lieu of money, and in order to share in the benefit to accrue from an influx of settlers. If we have been misinformed in this particular, and the privilege is valueless, we shall be lowering our own estimate of the assistance we were to derive by renouncing this part of our proposition.

The remaining three suggestions touching the questions of through fares and freights, the amount and duration of the State's participation in the interest liabilities on the whole cost of the work, and the period during which the railroad should be exempted from the ordinary taxation are inter-dependent, and may properly be considered together, but there is much to be said thereupon which might prolong this correspondence indefinitely, but which might be better discussed, and some satisfactory basis of agreement reached thereon, in a single afternoon's conversation.

I may say here, however, that the concessions of an equality of rates per mile on through traffic with San Francisco, is one of the greatest which can possibly be asked of any one, the very utmost that Portland can ever expect to reach at any time, and is one which it would be useless to ask of any other party. Even the Northern Pacific company to which you refer as the more or less distant hope of some of your people, would hardly be able to guaranty any such through rates, certainly not unless you are prepared, on your part, to guarantee an enormous amount of money to its construction, and even after its completion it would have rather less than an equal voice in making the rates between Portland and Eastern cities, while the Central Pacific Co., if it should push a line of its own to your city, would have rather more. At the same time, while I cannot blame your endeavor to secure for your city and its trade these invaluable advantages, I am not, at this time, prepared to either affirm or deny the possibility of its adoption, if, on our part, we were in turn, guaranteed a sufficient consideration. On this part of the subject I desire you to learn the views of such of my associates as are in the directory of the Central Pacific Company. I think it would be easy to show you that the benefit to accrue to your commerce and people from this concession would be many times the sum you consider a sufficient inducement to enlist our efforts in your railroad connection, that its direct benefit to say nothing of those indirect benefits growing out of it, would be [illegible] for a much longer period than that you have assumed for the tax exemption and interest payments.

In reference to the documents [illegible] with you will see that a discussion of this subject has elicited the important fact that in [illegible] the Central Pacific R. R. Co. are furnishing the cheapest railroad [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] considerably less than the same on the [illegible] [illegible] States.

If the action of the State, as you [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] tirely changed, but [illegible] [illegible] examination into the matter to come to some agreement with [illegible] between [illegible] the State of Oregon in the premises. [illegible] that the construction of the road would be in a tide of prosperity and comfort to Oregon similar to that enjoyed by California increase doubt that the people, when they see its effects, will be willing that at least a share of these benefits shall be repaid by those who assume the risks and burdens of creating this property, which is to do so much for all other classes and industries.

Yours truly, C. P. HUNTINGTON.

On motion of Mr Green, the above report of the committee was adopted and their action endorsed by the Board.

On motion of Hon. Henry Failing, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the Governor of the State be and he is hereby respectfully asked to appoint a committee from Oregon to meet the Portland railway committee and accompany them or their sub-committee to San Francisco, to meet Mr. Huntington and other directors of the C. P. railroad, as to the terms on which we may expect from that company railroad connection.

Mr Green moved that the whole matter be referred back to the railroad committee, with instructions to appoint a sub-committee, who will, along with a committee appointed by the Governor, meet Mr Huntington and other directors of the C. P. R. R. in San Francisco, carried.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

Mr. Reid submitted the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rule:

Resolved, That the first three lines of article 10 of the constitution, be amended and altered to read as follows: "Every member of this Board shall pay to the treasurer, for its use, the sum of $1 per month in advance."

On motion the Board adjourned.

NEW ERA.

NEW ERA, July 8, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The town of New Era, situated on the Wallamet, is looking up. They had a nice little picnic celebration there on the Fourth and raised a beautiful liberty pole, on which was suspended a large flag, all through the enterprise of Dr. J. Casto and wife. Mr. J. Parrott is erecting a fine dwelling house, and Dr. Casto is doing likewise. The Farmers' Storage and Forwarding Company will open their new store this week, and Dr. Casto will materially enlarge his trading house. A number of new settlers have bought homes in the immediate vicinity, and hence the division of the old donation claim, to the great benefit of New Era. More anon. EMPIRE.

Dr. McBride's great remedy, "The World's Relief," can be procured at the Office of the Cosmopolitan Hotel. It cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia; also regulates the Kidneys and Liver. Price, $1 per bottle.

The Centennial is over, and our country cousins as well as the city folks, have had an abundance of amusements. All who have paid a visit to Jos. Kohn's clothing house express themselves thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which he treats them.

HAIR RESTORED.

If any who are skeptical of the ability of Mrs. S. Lord to produce a crop of new hair in all stages of baldness will call or write to her at her rooms in National Bank building, Portland, she will refer them to several prominent Portland gentlemen who three months since placed themselves under her treatment and are now in possession of a crop of new fine hair which is rapidly increasing in strength and vigor. Itching of the scalp and falling hair checked readily. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington.

W. L. ADAMS, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. Is extraordinarily successful in treating female complaints.

A LETTER.

DR. WIGHTMAN—Dear Sir: Since using your "Process" I have been entirely free from the HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES, and with the exception of two or three times I have never felt any symptoms of them, then it was entirely my own fault. BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Colonist says crops in the province all promise large yields.

News has been received that two men belonging to Showers' telegraphic construction party were drowned recently through some mismanagement.

Captain Christensen, for many years known as one of the most careful and experienced navigators between Victoria and the west coast, has been made a pilot for British Columbia waters.

Letters dated June 20th state that high water had caused considerable damage to mining claims on Dease creek, but that it was then falling and it was expected would recede to its natural level within a week.

A correspondent writing from Dease creek states that a new gulch, called French gulch, eight miles above Barry gulch and emptying into Thibert creek, was struck on the 19th of June by a miner named Oliver Longchamps. In the half day previous to dispatch of the news the discoverer had panned out $15, and was confident of the richness of the ground.

A private letter from London has been received in Victoria which states that the British Government will guarantee the whole of the money necessary to build a railway through British North America in consequence of the serious complications in the East. This news is not official, but the letter was written by a gentleman in London who is said to have excellent means of knowing what is going on in government circles respecting the colonies.

The steamer Beaver has made a second trip up the river and returned in safety. The Gertrude is also running, and the Gem is being repaired. Freight shipments to the mines are not by any means so heavy as heretofore. The great rush this year at Cassiar seems to be to the Delaire district. All the wingdams on Dease creek have been carried away by high water, outside of which there is no news of interest to report. The season is expected to be short.

H. M. S. Amethyst, Capt. A. P. Chatfield, arrived at Victoria on the 7th, from San Francisco, which port she left on the 24th ult., and was therefore 13 days on the passage under sail and light steam. The weather is described as a continual gale from the northwest. During one of the severest days an able-bodied seaman was washed overboard from one of the yards and drowned. The Amethyst is 1,405 tons register, 350 horse power, carries 14 guns, and has a complement of 200 men.

Owing to the depressed state of the coal market in San Francisco, and the loss of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's contract, Messrs. Dunsmuir, Diggle & Co. called a meeting of the miners on Saturday last. The proprietors made a proposition to the miners to keep them all at work during the summer, provided they accept a reduction of 20 cents per ton in the price of mining, so as to meet the extra expense of "dumping" or storing the coal. The present price of mining is $1 per ton.

The miners subsequently held a meeting and decided not to accept the reduced price.

The proprietors of the Wellington Colliery then decided to shut down a portion of the mine, thereby throwing about 70 miners (mostly married men with families) out of employment. Thirty-six miners are retained at work, to whom full price is paid.

The War against Disease.

The war waged against disease by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters goes bravely on. Dispatches are constantly received from the cured indicating the decisive nature of the advantages obtained by the great botanic cordial over its formidable adversary. Malarial fever, constipation, torpidity of the liver and kidneys, general debility, nervousness and rheumatic ailments invariably yield to this conqueror and preventive of disease. For the infirmities incident to the decline of life it is also an excellent specific. It hastens convalescence and repairs the ravages of ill health by facilitating the conversion of food into blood of a rich and nourishing quality. The appetite is improved by it, and in cases of nervous disease it tranquilizes that great sensorium, the brain, far more effectually than any mineral sedative.

BY RACKING YOUR LUNGS WITH A COUGH, you may irritate them into a condition ripe for the production of tubercles, and then, instead of a curable affection, you may have to deal with Consumption. Dr Jayne's Expectorant promptly cures all coughs and colds and by imparting vigor to the respiratory organs, enables them to freely throw off all obstructions engendered by neglected Colds, and heals all sore or inflamed parts.

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 13, 1876.

A TEXAS STORY

THE MANNER IN WHICH AN INJURED MAN SETTLED ACCOUNTS WITH A GANG OF DESPERADOES.

[From the St Louis Republican

A gentleman who has lately returned from a visit to Dallas, Texas, tells a story which is rather dramatic and may be true. The story was told to him by an old hunter who had become domesticated and was lounging about one of the Dallas hotels.

"I could tell you a heap of pretty queer stories, stranger," said the old fellow in conversation with the St Louis man, "but I don't know of any that ud be more likely to kind o' strike you than an experience of Sam Long's in Harrison county years ago. Texas was a tough place then, you ken bet on that."

And then the old fellow told the story which can scarcely be so graphic in print as in his terse idiom.

Years ago Harrison county in Texas was the haunt of about as desperate a gang of ruffians as ever infested any district west of the Mississippi. Their number was so great and their organization so complete that they set the but half administered law at defiance, carrying on a career of daring crime with impunity, and making the region an undesirable place of abode for all honest citizens. Ostensibly hunters or horse-traders the desperadoes made horse-stealing their chief occupation, never hesitating to commit a murder when necessary for their safety or for the execution of any of their rascally plans. The controlling spirit in this desperate organization was a giant named Dick Reddett, who, from his exceptional ferocity and daring, exercised almost despotic control over his followers. A special pride of this man was his extraordinary skill in the use of the rifle, no one of the band being able to compete with him in what was at that time considered the chief accomplishment of a Western man. It was a favorite practice with the band to congregate at some of the few small stores scattered through the country and there engage in shooting matches and it was upon one of these occasions that Sam Long the hunter already mentioned, chanced to be present. Long was a quiet, modest fellow who lived with his wife and child in the neighborhood and who made hunting his constant occupation. He never appeared at the store save to exchange skins and furs for provisions and ammunition, and was widely and favorably known for his sobriety and honesty. Upon the occasion just referred to, when Sam Long chanced to come while the desperadoes were engaged in one of their shooting matches, it was demanded that he should take a part in the sport. The hunter hesitated at first, but not wishing to incur the ill-will of the ruffians consented. His skill with the rifle was known to be something remarkable, and the desperadoes were not greatly surprised when he defeated all save the captain of the band. This man had not engaged in the sport, but when Long had vanquished all the others came forward with the assurance of an easy victory. The shots were made and, to the surprise of everybody, Long gained the day. The rage of the captain of the ruffians knew no bounds at being thus defeated in presence of his followers, and, although refraining from any violence on the spot he intimated darkly to the hunter that he would "get even with him." Long paid little attention to the threat, and soon afterward returned to his cabin.

At just dusk, some days later Sam Long having come in from a long hunt was lying on the floor of his cabin and playing with the child, while his wife was getting supper. The wife, busy with her cooking, asked Long to go to the spring and bring some water, a request which he promptly complied with, leaving the gun in the house, a somewhat unusual course with him. He had reached the spring and was just stooping to fill the pail he carried, when he was borne down by an attack from behind, bound securely, and dragged some yards into the woods. When he recognized his [illegible] he knew what to expect. He had fallen into the hands of the Reddett gang, and the leader was about to "get even." Long was stripped by order of the captain and bound to a tree. A supply of hickory switches was obtained, and then the captain took one of them up and began the whipping, announcing with an oath that no man could beat him or his men shooting and stay in the country. The sufferings of the victim were terrible. The [illegible] was cut from his back in strips by the blows, and when the leaders of the roughs had gratified his rage, others of the band continued the punishment. But one man among the number showed any mercy, and his assertion that Long had been punished enough was received with derision. Finally the hunter fainted under the pain, and the ruffians, having satisfied their grudge, departed, leaving the object of their spite bound to the tree. In this position he was found by his wife, who had become alarmed for his safety, and who, searching for him had been attracted to the spot by a faint moaning. She assisted him to reach the cabin, which he did with difficulty, and then nursed him faithfully to recovery. It was weeks before he was well enough to move about.

Scarcely had Long recovered from his wounds when his cabin was found deserted, and members of the Reddett band, thinking that he had fled the country, boasted openly of what they had done. At the same time they became bolder than ever in the commission of crime, always hunting or traveling together in a company of between twenty and thirty, and defying attack from any quarter. One day as they were engaged on a hunt a member of the band became separated from the rest in the excitement of the chase. He was found lying dead, shot in the left eye. A few days later one of the ruffians riding alone, was killed. Again the bullet was found to have entered the left eye, but no trace of the slayer could be discovered. A week or two passed, and another of the desperadoes was shot, the same terrible accuracy being exhibited in a shot in the left eye proving all the shots to be from the same source. The robbers became alarmed and kept always together in their raids but there was no escaping the death which seemed always to be lurking near them. One after another fell until ten [illegible] had died, each one pierced in the eye. The woods were scoured by the terrified men in vain. On one occasion, when a member of the band was killed, the shot had been heard, and once a gaunt figure was seen running through the woods but pursuit failed to overtake him. Accustomed to face danger as the desperadoes were, and possessed as they were of a brutal courage, they trembled before this mysterious danger. It could not be faced, and it could not be averted. The result was that some of the band deserted and fled the region. There remained only the captain and four of the more resolute of his followers. These five hunted and made their raids always together and for some time escaped harm. It chanced that among the five was the man who had endeavored to save Long at the time of the whipping from so severe a torture. This man one morning ventured out in the woods without his comrades. He was walking slowly along looking for game, when the brown barrel of a rifle projecting from a bush beside him checked his course. A tall, lank figure rose from the bush and the startled man recognized Sam Long the hunter. Long raised the rifle, then lowered it.

"You're the man who said a good word for me, an' you may go, bad as you are. I won't take your miserable life. Go!"

The man needed no second invitation to go. He hurried to the camp and told his story. The captain and the other three men started out in pursuit of Long, and but two men accompanied Dick Reddett when he returned. The third man had fallen shot in the eye and no search of the underbrush revealed the hunter. The next day another man was killed in camp, and again the hunter escaped. On the next day the two remaining men fled the country leaving the fierce Reddett alone. The leaders of the desperadoes dared not remain where he was. He knew he was the man above all others that Long sought to kill. Concealing himself until night he mounted his horse and fled for the nearest point on the Arkansas river where it would be possible to take passage on a steamboat. Two days later he reached a small landing in the woods on the banks of the river where the steamer stopped for passengers when there were any to take. He learned from the occupant of the only cabin in the neighborhood that the boat would be down in the afternoon and so having put up the signal to secure a landing, of the boat established himself on the bank and waited. He deemed himself safe enough from pursuit and took no precautions. Throwing himself on the ground he slept until late in the day, he was awakened by the sound of the boat in the distance. She would round a point in a moment or two and he waited expectantly. As suddenly as though risen from the ground, a lank figure stood before him and the muzzle of a rifle peered in his face. The terrified desperado had no difficulty in recognizing the man as the one he had injured. With the rifle still held steadily upon the face of the startled Reddett Long hissed:

"I've got you [illegible] Whipped me like a nigger [illegible] I'd kill you before I'd [illegible] again and I'm goin' to do it. [illegible] out your band and [illegible] you! Thank [illegible]"

The ruffian [illegible] life groveling at the [illegible] clung to his world like a [illegible] clings to straws. [illegible] Should she round the point in [illegible] be saved? Already the smoke [illegible] through the brush [illegible] the trigger the sharp report [illegible] Reddett fell dead shot [illegible] left eye. Long slipped away in the woods and when the boat stopped in response to the signal they found a dead man but no one else. Harrison county was rid forever of the worst gang of ruffians in the Southwest.

An' that stranger," said the old man in the Dallas hotel, "is a true story of the way Sam Long settled accounts with the blackguards."

BAY VIEW HOUSE,
BAKER'S BAY, UNITY, W. T.

MR. DEXTER INFORMS THE PUBLIC that his House is now open for the reception of guests. Its advantages in every respect over any other Summer Resort are too well known to Oregonians to repeat here. To strangers I will say that the place is in plain sight and across the Bay from Astoria on the sheltered side of Cape Hancock and very near and adjacent is the Fort and Light house on Bakers Bay a beautiful sheet of water unequaled for Sailing, Rowing, Fishing and Bathing. The dark forest with its picturesque drives its mountain springs profusion of wild berries wild flowers and ferns [illegible] trail to the Cape for Equestrians or walkers is one of the most delightful Panoramas [illegible] The cosy beaches its cave [illegible] Island its views of Astoria Clatsop Fort Stevens [illegible] Tillamook in the blue distance.

The courteous hospitality of the officers of the Garrison at the Fort and also of Mr Munson and family of the Light-house make that place well worthy of a visit.

The Salt Water bathing in the bay within a few feet of the hotel excels anything far or near for warmth of the water and mildness of its waves far preferable to the heavy surf and cold winds for women children and invalids while the sturdy swimmer or those who love the foaming surf in a few minutes walk will find a beach unsurpassed in beauty hard and level for a continuous drive of thirty miles. At this end are huge rocks stretching out into the ocean from which fishers take from the sea Bass Rockfish Tom Cod Porgy etc etc Crabs Clams Oysters &c in abundance, and the Table will never lack a sufficiency of those desirable adjuncts. Boats on the Bay Saddle Ponies for the children Teams to the Weather Beach Croquet Swings Quoits etc FREE to Guests.

Prices reduced from the old tariff

To those who would like to camp out wood and water and use of ground free. Groceries provisions milk eggs butter etc for sale at a small profit. Campers can board at the Hotel if they prefer at fair rates. A large Livery Stable two new and fine Ten Pin Alleys attached to the place.

Take Office to Oysterville Postoffice Wells Fargo & Co's office also there. No raw winds or damp fogs and more beautiful tracks and shady groves cannot be found. The only regret the Landlord has is that his house is not larger but his grounds are large enough and beautiful enough to warrant next season a Hotel worthy of the surroundings.
